

Wedel's Should You Feed Birds in the Summer?

Summertime is a great time to feed birds. You may see different birds at your feeders during summer than other seasons. And many, such as finches and warblers, may sport their vibrant spring and summer plumage spreading color throughout your yard.

Summertime is a great time to see hummingbirds and other nectar-eating birds. Hummingbirds are frequent feeder visitors because they eat nearly half their weight in nectar every day.

You'll also be in for a treat when woodpeckers, bluebirds, and other nesting birds bring their babies to your feeders to teach them how to eat at the feeder. The young fledglings put on a great show!
